DEATH OF COLORED
MAN OFFICER SHOT*Inquisition Being Conducted In Death of Philip A.

Roller R. Beckhart, Pa. Motor
Police, Says He Killed
Man in Self-Defense

An inquisition is being held today into the death of a colored man who was shot and killed in a scuffle with a member of the Doylestown Motor Police. The inquest was scheduled to be called at 11 o'clock this morning in the Coroner's court room at Norristown.

Coroner Winslow J. Rushong, of Montgomery County, summoned witnesses in the case of Philip A. Kemp, 32, Philadelphia Negro, who was shot and killed in a struggle with Private Roller R. Beckhart on the night of September 26th. Beckhart claims he shot Kemp in self-defense while arresting him as a robber suspect near Neshaminy, after Kemp is alleged to have robbed the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lee, Warrington Township.

Among the witnesses summoned to testify at the Coroner's inquest are Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, Sergeant William Engle, Corporal William Herman, Private Joseph Jacob, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lee, A. Russell Thomas, John Lee, and the defendant, Private Beckhart.

The shooting occurred on the night of September 26th when Beckhart took Kemp into custody as a robbery suspect. Beckhart was patrolling and had been advised by the sub-station at Doylestown that the Lee home had been robbed and to be on the look-out for a Negro. When Beckhart met Kemp he ordered him into the car and then the two became engaged in a struggle as the officer drove toward the sub-station. Beckhart says Kemp attempted to take his gun and shoot him.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

The Balance of Power

Washington, Oct. 7.
SO far as the outcome of the neutrality fight is concerned, the central practical fact is that the Senate balance of power rests in the hands of the anti-New Deal Democrats, nearly all of whom are supporting the administration proposal to lift the embargo.

CLEARLY they are in control of the situation. The Pittman bill cannot be passed without their votes. There are about eighteen Democrats in the Senate strongly opposed to the basic New Deal policies, and intensely distrustful of Mr. Roosevelt personally. Nine of these he unsuccessfully attempted to drive out of public life because they revolted from his effort to pack the Supreme Court. But without the votes of these men, most of whom he and his aides have been denouncing for the past two years, his neutrality program would not have a chance.

THE THICK and thin administration men today are in a minority in both branches of Congress. This has been convincingly proved in a number of tests. Mr. Roosevelt lost control in the last session and found himself thwarted on practically every major proposal. While his present program will prevail at this session—and should—that does not mean he has gained control. On the contrary, it is obvious that he is dependent for the success of his foreign policy upon the Democrats most antagonistic to his domestic policies, and generally referred to by White House

CAUTIONS AGAINST FIRE HAZARDS HERE*Fire Inspector and Fire Chief
Both Warn Residents and Urge Carefulness*FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Today is the beginning of Fire Prevention Week throughout the State and fire fighters, as well as those interested in preventing fires, have banded together in an educational campaign. They are making a special effort this week to educate the public to fire hazards and how fires in many instances can be prevented.

Edward A. McIlvaine, Bristol, fire inspector for the Department of Labor and Industry, has announced that Fire Prevention Week will be observed throughout the State this week.

During that time, it has been suggested by Mr. McIlvaine, the fire chiefs and others interested in the prevention of fires make inspections of theatres, hotels, schools, public and private institutions and factories.

Suggestion has also been made that the firemen conduct drills during the observance of Fire Prevention Week. Chief Clifford Hagerman of the Bristol Consolidated Fire Department urges residents here to take every precaution against fires. All rubbish and other debris should be cleaned from basements, attics and other places of storage, he states. Great care should be exercised to see that all furnaces are in good condition and chimneys thoroughly cleaned.

Bristol's fire loss can be kept down to the minimum and the possible loss of life prevented by exercising care and caution about premises.

The list of "Don'ts" include the following:

Don't use gasoline as a cleaning fluid; it is more dangerous than dynamite.

Don't leave small children alone in the house.

Don't leave your electric iron connected while you perform household duties in another room of the house.

Don't pour water onto burning grease—it won't work.

Don't replace burned-out fuses with "temporary" coins or tin-foil.

If you discover a fire, don't lose your head. Call the fire department, give the address clearly, stand by to direct firemen. Precious minutes may be lost by misdirection to firemen.

Lad Injured While Being Taken To Harriman Hospital

A seven-year-old boy being rushed to the Harriman Hospital after falling from a tree was injured in an automobile accident Saturday afternoon.

The injured lad is Jack Watt, West Bristol. In addition to being shaken up in his fall out of the tree the Watt boy sustained a laceration of the mouth and of the eyelid in the auto accident.

The Watt boy, accompanied by his sister, Genevieve, 17, was being driven to the Harriman Hospital by Thomas Corrigan, Newport Road. As the Corrigan car went east up Route 13, an automobile driven by Maurice Venero, 213 Mill street, going west, made a left turn off Route 13 into the Manera garage. The two cars crashed.

Mrs. Mary Venero, wife of Maurice Venero, 26, was cut about the head, had leg, bruises and suffered shock.

Do You Know of A Potato That Is Bigger Than This?

Last week Henry Kilian, of the Belle Mead Farm, dug what he believes is the biggest potato tuber of the season. It is of the Katahdin variety, and is one of hundreds of bushels, all of very large size, which have been rolling out of the ground on this farm, south of Bristol.

The prize tuber weighs thirty-three ounces, is six and a half inches long, four and a half wide and three deep. Its greatest girth is eighteen inches.

Mr. Kilian was asked if it is solid all the way through. "I want to look at it a while."

Mr. Kilian further said: "I haven't been all around the county to see if mine is the biggest, but I don't see how a potato could be bigger. I'm willing to be shown, though."

CALL OF THE NORTH

A report issued by the department of the interior, entitled The Problem of Alaska Development, and a summary of a recent geological and agricultural survey of Alaska, have served to call attention to still undeveloped riches in America's Arctic area.

Alaska was bought by the United States from Russia for little more than $7,000,000. For many years, the vast territory remained unexplored, a possession tucked away in the pockets of the Washington bureaus. The Klondike gold craze called the world's attention to this northwest corner of the Western Hemisphere from which it is only a hop, skip and jump to the other half of the globe. In the last half century, Alaska has produced more than a half a billion dollars in gold, more than a billion dollars in fish and millions of dollars in other resources. The newest development of the interest in Alaska as a national treasure chest is the belief of those who look to Alaska as a potentially rich agricultural area.

The hardships of the north country are so great that so far few families have ventured to exist on the soil of Alaska, most of them in the government-owned Matanuska Valley Colony. Transportation facilities are meager and the rigors of the winter climate offer a stern challenge to the hardiest. The farm season is short, but the resources of the soil have been declared to be so abundant as to furnish a living for many who seek a refuge.

The gold supply eventually will peter out, but there are other enormous stores of valuable minerals in Alaska—tin, manganese and others which extensive geological surveys are expected to reveal. Present conservation policies are expected to result in an expanding supply of fish so as to maintain the present supply indefinitely. Another important production item is furs, and there is a still unexploited field with great potential value—timber. It has been estimated that Alaska could supply one-third of the newsprint used in the United States, at the present rate of consumption, almost indefinitely with no marked depletion of forests.

With transportation facilities increased to meet needs, Alaska offers opportunity for a far greater number of residents than the present population of 60,000, half of whom are Eskimos or Indians. It presents to the hardy and the venturesome one of the last frontiers.

IT'S A LONG DRAG

The National Industrial Conference Board reports that unemployment declined 4.3 per cent in August to the lowest point in almost two years. But that still leaves 9,424,000 persons without work.

Stated another way, employment rose almost half a million in August, placing the number of those having employment at 45,263,000. Some times it is well to know how many persons in this country are working as well as how many are not working.

It is encouraging to note that the gain in employment is ascribed to a steady upward trend in all branches of industry. What all of us would be glad to see, what all of us are hoping to see is such an acceleration of this trend as will lessen the otherwise long drag before normal conditions are once more reached.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Mar. 7, 1878. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The following items are culled from the Bucks County Gazette, dated March 7, 1878:

On Friday evening Cabene's Hall was again crowded with an attentive audience and the exercises, which were more than usually interesting, were begun by the singing of "The Maid of Dundee" by Samuel Van. Jossiah Pearce read an essay especially intended for workmen, and containing good advice for everybody, showing in forcible language the evils of intemperance and the benefit of temperance. Clara Strumfells then read a poem called "The Beacon Light," and Richard E. Shaw sang "Gathering Up the Shells by the Sea Shore." Mrs. Pray read a very pathetic sketch entitled "Dorothy," basant. Jossiah Pearce read an essay on the story of "one more unfortunate" of whom there are so many in the large cities. . . .

Nathan Preston, of Plumstead, was agreeably surprised on his 76th birthday, the 22nd ult., when he found his children had prepared a feast and brought it with them. He enjoyed the surprise and felt much flattered at the attention and respect shown him. . . .

Mrs. Joseph H. Foster died on Sunday morning after a lingering illness of many months. Her funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the Methodist Church and was largely attended. Mr. Foster being a school director, the public schools were closed in the afternoon, and the teachers attended the funeral in a body.

The "Columbia" made her first trip of the season Monday, and looks as bright as a new pin, and on Tuesday she came up with all her colors flying. She is undoubtedly the handsomest boat on the river and under the management of her efficient officers cannot help being popular with the travelling public.

YARDLEYVILLE—The entertainment for the Benevolent Society given on Tuesday night was a grand success financially and otherwise. The new hall goes on apace. I wonder if outsiders know that we have a hall fund of about $1300 belonging to every body around, and nobody about. Well, we have and a meeting of the committee has been called with a view to dispose of said fund and give it to some one or some party who will furnish us a good hall. . . .

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Ever since first news came that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was planning to film "The Wizard of Oz," screen-goers have been wondering why it took Hollywood 39 years to discover that this L. Frank Baum story, published in 1900, is excellent motion picture material.

The answer is found at the Grand Theatre where "The Wizard of Oz" opened last night for an engagement of two days. It is difficult to see how this story could possibly have been made without all of the perfection in color, sound, music, casting and amazing effects of 1939.

RITZ THEATRE

Three times Virginia Field has just missed being presented at court to the King and Queen of England. And each time it has been her film career that has blocked this important event—the biggest in the social life of any British girl.

Miss Field, who plays the romantic lead opposite Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in Universal's "The Sun Never Sets," now at the Ritz Theatre, is the daughter of St. John Field, London barrister who was elevated to the rank of King's Councillor by Edward VIII.

spokesmen as Tories, Bourbons and reactionaries.

OF COURSE, it is equally true that the isolationists group fighting to retain the embargo are dependent upon the anti-Administration Democrats for success in any effort to amend the Pittman bill. In brief, the situation is wholly in the latter's hands. With the votes of the isolationists they can amend the bill in any way they want. With the Administration votes they can pass it as amended. When the debate is over it will be found they have done both. They will have passed a bill lifting the embargo as the President has urged, but making changes which he neither urges nor desires.

AT LEAST that is the present intention. It is also their purpose before the fight ends to make it clear that in backing the main Administration proposal it is not the President they are supporting, but the principle and that there is a great difference between the two. For example, the so-called "cash and carry" principle, which is the vital part of the bill, did not originate with the President at all.

but was laid before the Senate committee a good many months ago by Mr. B. M. Baruch, who frankly asserted that while it was not in the least a noble plan, it certainly was the safe and practical way for this country to meet the export problems that would be raised by a European war.

THE Baruch suggestion was warmly espoused by a number of Senators, some pro and others anti New Deal, quite a long time before the President got around to believing it. Under the circumstances, there seems some justification for the resentment among them over the deliberate effort of White House propagandists to create a "support-the-President" psychology for their own political purposes, and make it appear that leading Democrats who have been opposed to the New Deal are now partisans of the President because they are supporting his neutrality legislation.

THE MOST recent example is the way in which the White House has sought to exploit the fact that Senator Carter Glass of Virginia commended Mr. Roosevelt's message and has announced for the Pittman bill. Those who know Senator Glass knew that he was for the principle of the bill many months ago. And when he is for anything he says so. However, there was nothing in what he said or did to justify the story put out by the White House that a "dramatic reconciliation" between him and Mr. Roosevelt had been achieved that their differences had been adjusted and their friendship renewed. That was the version that came from the White House press agent, but it just does not happen to be true.

THE facts as given by those closest to Senator Glass are these—Mr. Roosevelt sent his Secretary, General Watson, whom Mr. Glass likes very much, to ask him to go to the White House. Senator Glass, of course, went. The President asked him to make a speech for the bill. Mr. Glass said if he felt well enough he would. They had a pleasant talk and parted in a friendly way. BUT, Mr. Glass' differences with the President have not been adjusted, and his opposition to every basic New Deal policy remains undiluted. So, too, is his conviction that Mr. Roosevelt has wrought irreparable damage to the country. Ngr has his confidence been restored to the man personally.

IT is the principle Senator Glass is supporting, not the President, and that "dramatic reconciliation" story was part of the effort of the White House strategists to utilize the present nonpartisan and non-factional line-up to create a politically desirable "support the President" psychology. It is not the purpose of the anti-New Deal leaders to let this lessen their advocacy of lifting the embargo, but it is their purpose, before the bill is passed, to let the country know they are aware of the game being played and make it plain that support of the President in this matter does not mean support in other matters. In particular it does not mean any diminution in the desire for a change of administration in 1940.

BENSALEM HIGH UPSETS BRISTOL IN CONFERENCE OPENER

TAKES INITIAL GAME BY THE SCORE 7-6; FULL OF THRILLS

Fans Swarm Out On Field To See "Winning" Touchdown

BUT IT DIDN'T COUNT

Bensalem Put Up Remarkable Battle Against The Cardinals

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 9.—People swarmed out on the field—Bristol fans they were—they jumped up and down, they threw hats into the air, they shouted with joy, they picked up Hardy Johnson and carried him on their shoulders, they were mad with joy!

And rightly so, too, for hadn't Hardy Johnson just run 29 yards and into the end zone to score the winning touchdown for Bristol on the second to last play of their opening grid battle of the current season against the Bensalem Owls? Bristol, who was the pre-season favorite to re-capture the 1939 Lower Bucks grid title, was trailing Bensalem in the initial conference scrap of the campaign, 7-6.

With less than three minutes to play, the Cards launched an offensive drive that ripped off yardage after yardage, first down after first down. Stopped through three and a half periods, this was the offensive that was to carry the Cardinals to the championship once more. This was the deadly offensive drive that once launched, couldn't be stopped.

And now that it was rolling along at a fast clip, what could little Bensalem, who refused to play Bristol for many years because they were out of each other's class, do about it? The invaders' big forward wall had worn out the much smaller Bensalem line-men, several of whom played the entire game. Two star Owl linemen, Charles Mudie and El Sileox, were out from the first period by injuries. With the Owls defense weakened tremendously and unable to do anything about the crushing Cardinals' attack, it was a race against time.

From their own 25 yard line, Bristol put the ball in play following another one of Bob Scarborough's mighty kicks. It was big Danny DiMidio, fleet Hardy Johnson, and hard driving Jimmy Orazi who were bearing the brunt of the attack all the way. But Bristol made only one yard on its first crack at the line and it seemed like a hopeless cause to get through Bensalem's sturdy defense.

But then Jimmy Orazi, coming around from his own right side to the left, took the ball from Danny DiMidio on a reverse, and behind the big full-back, he cracked off his own left tackle and down the sidelines to the 42 for a 16 yard gain before being spilled out of bounds. That was the spark that lit the flame for the offensive drive. Action came fast and plenty then. Big holes were ripped in the Owls front line of defense, enabling Bristol backs to run through them for gains of four and five yards at a time.

A reverse to the left side, a spinner through the middle, another power smash at the center and the ball's on Bensalem's 46 yard line where Danny DiMidio had just lugged it for four more yards and a first down. DiMidio takes it again and makes 5 yards this time. Now Orazi takes it on a reverse and goes down to the Owls' 34 for another first down.

DiMidio again hits the line and picks up 4 more yards, then Orazi to the 25 just short of a first down, but Johnson makes it on a reverse to the 24. Orazi makes 3 yards to the 29, then for the first time during the drive, the invaders lost ground when Johnson was thrown back on the 23 on an end run. A long pass by DiMidio, intended for Johnson went over the latter's head in the vicinity of the 5 yard line.

By this time there were only 30 seconds left to play, and with third down and 9 yards to go for another first down, Bristol was in a desperate situation as the Owls' line for the first time during the drive had pulled together its last bit of strength to stop the Cards' mad rush to the pay-off station.

What to do next was the big question that laid upon the shoulders of Danny DiMidio who was calling signals for Bristol. It's an end run with Danny himself carrying the pigskin and Hardy Johnson leading the play. But Bill Lamon, Bensalem's left end, breaks through—as Johnson brushes by him to smear the play. But that's just what Bristol wanted. DiMidio tossed the ball over Lamon's head and Johnson took it on the 24.

Tackler after tackler he dodged as he skirted down the sidelines then cut in toward the center. Finally overtaken by Bob Scarborough from behind, Johnson went down, but Bristol fans went wild as umpire Mazloff raised his hands above his head signifying Johnson had crossed the last line to score.

It was then that delirium ran riot with the visiting fans as they swarmed upon the field and raised Johnson to their shoulders. But the officials now were gathering together for a discussion in front of the goal posts. Is it not touchdown after all? Umpire Horace rules it isn't. And both coaches rush out on the field to clarify the decision. Fans mill about also to get on the discussion.

Many fans were out over both sides as markers and since there were no able lines marked for the goal line or an end zone lined off, it was difficult for the officials to make a decision until they could make a survey of the definite location of the ball. And then they did, they came up with the decision that it was not a touchdown, it fell four yards short of the goal line.

Before the hysterical fans could be

REDS LOSE AS MYERS MUFFS FREY'S THROW

With Yankees on first and third and none out in the first half of the ninth inning, the Yanks trailing the Reds by a score of 4 to 2, Catcher Bill Dickey of the Yanks hit a "double-play grounder" to Lonnie Frey, Reds' second baseman. Frey tossed it to Billy Myers, who muffed the catch, as shown in this photograph. One run scored on the play and the Yanks went ahead to win by 7 to 4. Had the play been made without error, Myers would have thrown to first, doubling up Dickey, and only one more out would have been needed. Di Maggio is shown sliding safely into second as the ball falls from Myers' glove. Frey is at right.

pushed back off the field, ten minutes had elapsed—a period which gave the coaches, officials, the players of both teams, and the fans time to calm down a bit. The situation was more critical now than ever with 3 seconds left to play—time enough for just one more play—and the ball on the four yard line.

Hardy Johnson took the ball when it was finally put in play and ran around the left side with Danny DiMidio leading. But the inspired Owl linemen swarmed in on Johnson and downed him on the two yard line—two yards short of the end zone.

And so the Bensalem Owls, not given the slightest chance to top the big and powerful Bristol eleven, had pulled the biggest upset perhaps of the entire 1939 season in local scholastic football ranks. In fact it was the mightiest upset for Lower Bucks schoolboys in many years. It came when Tom Campion was making his debut as Bristol's new head coach, and certainly marred his bow in that capacity.

There were other sensational plays in the ball game too. For instance, there were the two touchdowns plays, pass interceptions. Bob Scarborough's runback of several Bristol punts, and his own sensational kicking. There was the feature play of Charlie Lehr, Bensalem tackle, on the Owls line, the equally fine all around play of Bob Scarborough, George Strickler's line-backing, and Al Despo in the backfield. And for Bristol, Danny DiMidio, Jimmy Orazi, Hardy Johnson, "Chart" Tomlinson, and Captain Joe Pica all played swell ball in a losing cause.

Once Bensalem got the lead Saturday they were determined not to let it slip away from them this time. They took a 6-0 advantage on the very first play of the second half, the result of a very peculiar situation. Back on their own 43 with 3rd and 8 yards to go, Tony DiAngelo dropped back to kick for Bristol. He apparently threw the ball out too far or slipped, for he never touched the ball but instead kicked DiMidio in the pants. Charlie Lehr, who was charging in, scooped up the loose ball, and dashed 28 yards down the sidelines to score standing up.

Bristol made its touchdown on another sensational play when Danny DiMidio intercepted an enemy aerial on his own 15 yard line, and behind beautiful interference, raced 85 yards down the North side lines to score standing up. But Bristol failed to add the extra point on a line play, while Bob Scarborough booted a pretty place kick through the uprights for Bensalem's ultimate winning point.

Bob Scarborough had returned a Bristol punt some 48 yards from his own 33 to Bristol's 19 on a beautiful runback shanking off tacklers and reversing field in his flight, to set up the situation for DiMidio's run on the next play.

Later in the same period, Charlie Lehr recovered a Bristol fumble on the Cards' 25 yard line. But again an interception staved off a Bensalem threat and Chart Tomlinson grabbed a stray pass and cut to the sidelines from the 15 to the 37 for 22 yards. It appeared as though he might go for a touchdown too, but the last man pulled him down out of bounds, on the south sideline.

It was one of those tilts that had a whole season's thrills packed in it. Some 1200 fans who saw it, a "3-in-1" action fray, the kind that makes you get up on your toes, and the coach to get grey hairs or to pull out whatever he may have.

The half whistle ended another Bensalem threat when George Strickler returned a Bristol pass 25 yards from mid-field to the 25. Bristol was stopped on Bensalem's 25 by a fumble after DiMidio had made a first down on his own 48 and Johnson ran 30 yards to Bensalem's 22 on the next-to-last play of the 3rd period.

In the second half Bristol came out a new team. However, the Owls were still in front and they determined to maintain their slim margin. And aided by the sensational kicking of Bob Scarborough, who averaged approximately 37 yards per kick, Bristol was still on the defense until they opened their last period drive.

A look at the statistics will reveal a lopsided advantage in favor of Bristol. They made 10 first downs to none for the Owls, outrushed them, 185 yards to 23, and gained 29 yards to none on completed passes—Bristol completed one. But the Owls had three advantage points—the most spirit and fight, the best kicker, and finally the most points—all of which added up to victory any way you look at it.

However, nothing is taken away from the Owls for the inspired brand of ball they played. In fact the congratulations, which swamped coach George Reimer and his team after that spine-tingling finish, revealed the sentiment of the fans in general for their gallant fight to the finish. But coach Jimmy Doheny of Fallsington expressed it more appropriately than anyone else when he said to Reimer, "It's a thrill that comes once in a life-time." And he should know for he experienced it back in 1932 when his Falcons pulled the season's upset in beating Bensalem 6-0.

DIAMOND ELEVEN WINS OVER STANFIELD TEAM

ANDALUSIA, Oct. 9.—All outfitted neatly in their solid green uniforms, the Diamond eleven conquered the Stanfield team here yesterday afternoon by the score of 12-0. "Patty" McFarland scored both six-pointers in the Diamond team's triumph.

The Andalusia fullback scored his first touchdown in the initial period when he got off to an end run for 30 yards and counted without a hand being laid on him. His second touchdown was made in the final session and was an off-tackle thrust for eight yards. Both attempts at the extra point failed.

In the Diamond line, Swadis and Marbella stood out with McFarland and Scarborough doing the best ground-gaining. For the visitors, McShine and Caparo were the best.

RECS AND SHANAHAN CLUBS IN SCORELESS TIE

The Bristol Recs and Shanahan Catholic Club played a hard fought scoreless tie on Leedom's grounds yesterday. Both clubs were in position for a score but their defense stiffened and held. The Shanahan club intercepted a forward pass in the first period when Serra jumped high into the air and brought down Herman's pass thrown to Casparro and ran the ball to Bristol's 8 yard line. Here the Recs line showed the benefit of Geo. Dougherty's coaching and held the Philadelphia boys. The Recs took over the ball and marched down the field. First Herman carried the ball, then Crossley and then Riley and Mellor until the ball was on Shanahan's five yard line. But here it was Shanahan's turn to hold. After three cracks at the line, Herman's kick just missed by inches. So the Recs had the ball in the Catholic boys' territory until the last 8 minutes of play when the Shanahan club got a couple of long passes which brought the ball to the Recs' 10 yard line. Here again the Recs held, so they took to the air when Mellor intercepted Serra's pass, the game ending.

The features of the game were the playing of the Bartle boys, Jobson, Thomas, Baker, Sorensen, on the line and Crossley, Riley, Herman and Mellor in the backfield; Flatich, Dougherty, Casparro, Lake, at end position. For the Philadelphia boys the entire team played great ball.
